

Flock Strategy and Sheep Strategy

FLOCK: Our overarching discipleship strategy

Mission is what an organization exists to accomplish, and the strategy is how the organization accomplishes it. The Church's mission has been given to us by Jesus—to make disciples (Matthew 28:19-20). Because the mission is so important, we must think wisely about how to fulfill the mission in our contacts. Strategy for our flock is the “transformational loop.”

SHEEP: Our strategy for each person at important moments in their journey

We are commanded to shepherd God's flock among us until Jesus, the chief Shepherd, returns (1 Peter 5:2,4). As we care for the flock, we must also have a strategy for each sheep—particularly at important moments in each person's journey as a disciple. The important moments require intentional processes and relational people.

Intentional Processes:

- A first-time guest
- A new believer
- A person who signed up for a group for the first time
- A person who expresses interest in serving for the first time
- A person who gives for the first time
- A person who goes on a Faith Adventure for the first time

TRANSFORMATIONAL LOOP

Relational People:

Healthy leaders must shepherd people in each of those moments. Processes are important for scaling, but people shepherd others—not processes.
